I have a talent pool of computer professionals for PC and Mac systems.
We offer on-site, flexible, even urgent, technology assistance for the New York City–area.

Let's talk about the technical issues first. They fall into a few categories:

- o Tune-ups and upgrades
- o Adware/spyware and virus removal
- o Data backup and security
- o Networking and wireless connectivity

We also do training. We teach people to use their computers better.
My slogan here is that "1-on-1 works best!" and if you've ever tried it, you know that's true.

- o I do some of this work myself, and I assign seasoned trainers for specialty programs.
We work mostly in the Microsoft Office suite (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, Access) and with Adobe product families (especially Photoshop).
- o We setup QuickBooks. We synchronize smart-phones. We do iPods ... and more.
- o We're particularly adept with novices and seniors, and patient with the reluctant.

There are no hidden costs, so you know what to expect.
Nobody likes surprises when it comes to the bill.

- o For technical support, pricing is based on the number of computers involved, with a sliding scale of hourly rates.
- o For training, there is a basic rate for standard programs and cell phones, and a higher rate for advanced and specialty programs.
Group discounts are possible.
